CHECK BEGUN
ON U. S. MEAT
SENT RUSSIATRUMAN TO PLEDGE
COOPERATION WITH
GOP MONDAY

BY JACK BELL

Washington, Nov. 9 (AP)—Senator Wherry of Nebraska filed the Republicans' first post-election investigation at the Democrats to-day with announcement that he will go to Europe to scrutinize food shipments to Russia and other countries.

Wherry told a news conference he intends to find out whether part of 1,100,000,000 pounds of American meat he said was sent to Europe in the first six months of this year had been used to feed Russian and Yugoslav troops.

Nation's Welfare First
As he announced his inquiry, first of many the Republican-controlled Congress is expected to launch, there were these other political developments:

1. The White House announced that President Truman will issue a general policy statement at his first post-election news conference Monday morning. Intimates reported he will pledge himself to place the nation's welfare above personal or party interest in working with the Republican Congress and express his hope particularly for continued bipartisan support on foreign policy.

2. Senator Fulbright (D-Ark.), amplifying his suggestion that the president name a Republican secretary of state and then resign in his favor, predicted that if Democrats attempt to hold on to power "in the face of obvious disapproval of the people," the party would suffer a "disastrous defeat in the 1948 presidential race."

3. Signs developed of a possible fight over the Senate minority leadership, paralleling a similar House contest, with Wherry's assertion that Minority Leader White (R-Me.) must be considered if he wants the new post. Senator Taft (R-Ohio) previously has been talked of as the likely choice. But Wherry did not remove himself as a possible candidate.

New Deal Repudiated
Wherry left no doubt he thinks the party repudiated at the polls last Tuesday the new deal philosophy he contends Mr. Truman followed in attempting to carry out the policies of the late President Roosevelt.

"I think the people voted to throw out the new deal and the radicalism that went with it," the Nebraska Senator declared.

Fulbright's statement said his suggestion for a full-blown change in government through a presidential resignation was not intended as any reflection on President Truman.

He argued that the Republicans, if denied this full responsibility for the government in the next two years, would contend in 1948 that if they had had control of the White House "things would have been better, and of course no one can prove the contrary."

Burbank, Calif., Nov. 9 (AP)—Lockheed's giant Constitution, a 92-ton transport plane built for the naval air transport service, thundered into the air today on its first test flight and landed two hours and 17 minutes later on the hard bed of Muroc dry lake at an army air field in the southern California desert.

Lockheed engineers described the 180-passenger and cargo plane as the largest transport plane in the world.

Hard Coal Miners
Bid For Pay Raise

(By The Associated Press)

The nation's hard coal miners put in their bid for pay boosts Saturday.

The Shenandoah, Pa., general mine board of the AFL United Mine Workers asked John L. Lewis to reopen the anthracite coal contract and demand a wage increase and shorter work week. The request was made amid indications the government was seeking a dual-purpose formula for solving Lewis' demands for his 400,000 soft coal miners and for returning the bituminous mines to private ownership.

The showdown in the soft coal dispute will come Monday when the UMW chief meets with Secretary of Interior Krug to talk terms.

Meanwhile, the CIO Transport Workers Union threw a picket line around the New York board of transportation headquarters and the government renewed efforts to end the 18 day old strike of AFL pilots on Trans World Airlines.

Leaders of the New York Transport Workers Union said the members would be polled Wednesday and Thursday on the question of striking against New York's unified transit system.

The strike threat was raised after the three man board of transportation voted two to one to reject a recommendation of Mayor William O'Dwyer's advisory committee that the board engage in collective bargaining with the dominant transit union, which is the TW group. Also at issue is the question of retroactivity of 20 cents an hour pay boost granted recently.

Chairman Frank P. Douglass of the National Mediation Board sought to end the TWA pilot's strike stalemate by bringing together in his office Frank Frye, airline president, and David L. Behnke, president of the AFL Air Line Pilots Association.

However, larger quantities of some foods will be available, the department said. "Included in this group are cheese, evaporated milk, canned and frozen fruits, apples, citrus fruit, cranberries, grapes, canned and frozen vegetables, potatoes, dried milk, corn food products and canned fish."

Supplies of other foods—including meats—will be about the same as a year ago. The department said beef supplies will be larger this winter and that pork will be more plentiful than in recent months, although less than beef.

The department predicted the flow of meat into distribution channels from heavy current slaughter will reduce prices from their current levels but they will continue above previous ceilings at least into early 1947.

Veterans Sit Tight
In Seized Homes On
Chicago South Side

Chicago, Nov. 9 (AP)—As 54 veterans and their families "sat tight" in a South Side housing project they seized early this week, leases on most of the disputed units were signed today by some 45 other veterans whose applications were approved by the Chicago housing authority.

Milton Shufro, assistant executive secretary of the CHA, told the lessees the CHA was "sympathetic" with the housing problems of the squatters, but said priority must be given those veterans whose needs were most acute.

The leases were signed after a meeting at which CHA officials stated they would "fight to the finish" against the squatters.

Earlier, Elmer Gertz, chairman of the veterans' housing committee, said the squatters had "done a disservice to themselves, other veterans, and the community."

Hacksaurs Smuggled
By Bay City Boys To Federal Prisoners

Detroit, Nov. 9 (AP)—Thomas Suave, 18, of Bay City, has been arrested by federal agents in Baltimore, Md., in connection with the recent attempted jail break by federal prisoners held in Bay City. It was announced Saturday by H. T. O'Connor, special agent in charge of the FBI here.

O'Connor said that Suave is charged with violation of the escaped federal prison act and will be returned to Bay City to stand trial in federal court.

Suave admitted to FBI agents in Baltimore that he smuggled five hack saw blades to the federal prisoners by keeping the blades to the inside of his right forearm when he visited in the jail Oct. 24. O'Connor said Suave himself had been released from the same jail Oct. 22 after he completed a sentence for drunk driving.

Suave told the FBI that he left Bay City Oct. 28 and went to Baltimore where he expected to join the maritime service.

TARIFF CUTS
PROMISED TO
18 COUNTRIESREPUBLICANS ASKED TO BACK FOREIGN TRADE PLEDGES

BY JOHN SCALI

Washington, Nov. 9 (AP)—The United States announced its intention tonight of seeking specific tariff-reducing agreements with 18 countries as a conference next spring.

In an apparent post-election move to reassure foreign countries of the administration's determination to keep its trade pledges, Undersecretary of State William J. Clayton announced the move at a news conference.

Clayton simultaneously expressed firm conviction that the Republicans formerly considered exponents of high tariffs, will support the Democratic administration's foreign trade program.

Senator Wherry (Rep.-Neb.), said however, Senate Republicans probably will want to study any proposed tariff reductions before they pass judgment.

Russia Aloof
The negotiations will be the most extensive ever carried out under the reciprocal trade agreements act of 1934 which former Secretary of State Hull pioneered.

Tariff cuts on thousands of items ranging from feathers to machinery will be considered.

Countries to be represented at the conference account for two-thirds of the world's trade. Only Russia has not accepted an American invitation.

President Truman released a statement, terming the projected trade discussions "necessary to achieve the objectives of the Atlantic charter."

"Their success or failure will largely determine whether the world will move towards a system of liberal international trade, free from arbitrary barriers, excessive tariffs and discriminations, or will pay the heavy cost of narrow economic nationalism," Mr. Truman added.

The act was extended for three years in July of 1945 but many Republican Congressmen voted against it.

Announcement Held Back
The undersecretary maintained that many Republicans back the administration's views on tariffs and pointed to statements by Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.), Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York and the late Wendell Willkie.

Clayton disclosed the state department had deliberately withheld the tariff announcement until after the elections to avoid making it the target of partisan political attacks.

American traders, manufacturers and others interested will be given an opportunity to express their opinions on the step beforehand. They were instructed to file statements with the inter-departmental committee on reciprocity information before Dec. 21 and to appear at hearings Jan. 13.

Week-Long Winter
Blizzard Takes 11
Lives In Colorado

(By The Associated Press)

A week-long blizzard that claimed 11 lives in Colorado continued Saturday as pre-winter snow storms left a white blanket over California mountain resort towns and several northwest states.

Unseasonably mild weather, meanwhile, prevailed in the southeastern section of the nation. Elsewhere, the weather was normal.

A heavy wet snow, accompanied by high winds, blanketed Nebraska. Snow also continued in Wyoming while a light fall was recorded over most of South Dakota.

Washington, Nov. 9 (AP)—The federal government, which pays the maternity costs for servicemen's wives in the lower pay grades, expects to get the bill for the one millionth baby under the program this week.

The Children's Bureau, which administers the program, doesn't know, however, just whose baby it will be nor where it will be born.

A bureau official said it is pretty certain baby No. 1,000,000 will arrive "somewhere in the United States on or about Armistice Day."

LEFTISTS MAY
CONTROL ROMEVatican City Newspaper
Urges Catholics To Get Out Vote

BY JOHN P. MCKNIGHT

Rome, Nov. 9 (AP)—Rome and 142 other cities pick municipal governments tomorrow at elections in which local issues are largely overshadowed by the question of Trieste and increasingly sharp national differences between Italian leftists and those farther to the right.

In Rome, where "bloke of the people" comprising Communists, Socialists, Actionists and Labor Democrats is one of the eight tickets, the Vatican City newspaper L'Osservatore Romano urged Catholics to put on an energetic last-minute get-out-the-vote campaign lest the capital of Christendom fall under the domination of leftists.

With the Communists busily exploiting to the full the role of Communist Chief Palmiro Togliatti as the "savior of Trieste," observers agreed the 2,500,000 voters in Rome and the other cities would directly influence the future policies of the central government.

A smashing victory in Rome by the newly solidified bloc of Communists, Socialists and other left-wing splinter groups would embolden them to break up Premier Alcide de Gasperi's precarious middle-of-the-road four-party government and try running the country itself, it was believed.

On the other hand, confirmation of the mandate De Gasperi's Centrist Christian Democrats received at the June 2 constituent assembly elections might encourage the premier to tell the left parties to cooperate along the lines of his policies or get out of the government.

Fighting Marines
Now 171 Years Old

Washington, Nov. 9 (AP)—The fighting marines are 171 years old tomorrow.

To the men who wear its emblem proudly, commanding officers everywhere today directed a proclamation read hailing the Marine Corps as "indeed the finest fighting organization in the world."

The history of the Corps stretches back to the American revolution. In 95 of its 170 years, marines have been in action against the nation's foes.

"From the fighting tops of the Bon Homme Richard to the occupation of Japan," the proclamation said, "Marines have firmly established their reputation as fighting men."

Scotland Yard Ready
For Jewish Terrorists

London, Nov. 9 (AP)—The colonial office acknowledged today that it was acquainted with reports a Jewish armada was preparing to rush the British blockade of Palestine, and Scotland Yard announced that special guards had been placed at government buildings in London as a precaution against an expanded campaign by Jewish "terrorists."

These developments coincided with incidents in Palestine which a British officer said were significant because they meant the Jewish resistance movement had "declared all-out war."

The incidents included a broadcast from the "Voice of Fighting Zion," secret transmitter of Irgun Zvai Leumi, underground Jewish organization, which accepted the responsibility for the recent

Restrictions Stay
On Finished Homes
For Sale Or Rent

Washington, Nov. 9 (AP)—Controls are off building material prices and wages but not off finished homes for sale or rent. And priorities governing the flow of building supplies are going to stick, along with restrictions on the amount of commercial construction.

Housing Administrator Wilson Wyatt made that plain tonight. His statement said that although President Truman removed wage controls and price ceilings on building supplies, "all other controls will be kept in force" in the housing field.

Some of the things to be kept: A price ceiling of $10,000 on homes for sale and a limit of $80 a month on rents of those erected for rental purposes.

Government subsidies on building materials.

Government guarantees to buy and resell prefabricated houses for which manufacturers are unable to find a market.

While builders still will have to get priorities for materials for home construction and the ceilings on rental and sales prices of the finished products will remain, labor and materials prices can fluctuate unhindered.

The National Association of Home Builders, which sent a committee to confer today with Wyatt, recommended that priorities also be abandoned as "ineffectual."

Priorities apply to some 50 materials, such as lumber, plywood, flooring, radiators and bath tubs.

President Truman said he wished it were possible to keep effective price controls on building materials to help the veterans' housing program.

"But price control on building materials alone, with no price control on products competing for the same raw materials," he said, "would drive these materials away from housing and defeat the objectives of the program."

CEILINGS LEFT
SUGAR, RENTSCURBS ON SALARIES
AND WAGES LIFTED
IN ONE STROKE

Washington, Nov. 9 (AP)—Price ceilings on everything except dwellings, sugar and rice were wiped away completely by President Truman tonight in one sweeping order which spelled the speedy end of OPA.

All government controls on wages and salaries, too, were abolished except in cases of government seizure, like the soft coal mines. Thus the wage stabilization board goes out of business.

While the OPA rent ceilings will be continued, Mr. Truman indicated that they may be increased—"it may be that some adjustment of rents will be required," he said. But housing expert Wilson Wyatt announced that the sales and rental ceilings on new homes built under the veterans emergency housing program will stay as is.

OPA Liquidates

The presidential order removed price ceilings from clothing, automobiles, building materials, furniture, metals, paper, coal, laundry—everything, in fact, that still remained under ceilings after the avalanche of recent decontrol actions except the scarce items of housing, sugar and rice.

The order was effective as of 12:01 a. m. (Eastern Standard Time) Sunday, but price law violations before that time still may be prosecuted and businessmen are required to keep their records for another year.

Mr. Truman acted four days after the election which saw Republicans capture control of the Senate and House in a campaign which swirled around the slogan "Had Enough?" (of controls and shortages). The action was in the weeks before election day, however, and was delayed only because of the extensive consultations necessary among the officials concerned.

Its principal impact was on these three agencies:

OPA—Price Administrator Paul Porter, now expected to resign shortly, announced that the much criticized agency "is proceeding immediately with liquidation" of its pricing functions. The local boards throughout the nation already are closed. A special liquidation agency probably will be set up to polish off the work.

NSR—Chairman W. Willard Wirtz announced that the wage stabilization board's functions will be wound up and its offices closed as quickly as possible. While it has nothing more to say about wages, it has some 6,700 cases of alleged wage control violations pending and these must be decided. Where violations are found, employers may be denied deductions of the labor expenses on income tax returns.

NHA—The National Housing Agency apparently faces some complications if construction wages and building material prices rise now that they are decontrolled. Mr. Truman said that "a change in the approach to some of the problems" will be necessary

Isolated Oil Camps Tamed And Prettied

BY SAM DAWSON

New Iberia, La. (AP)—How you going to keep 'em down on the rig?

To keep their men happy, healthy and efficient, oil companies have revolutionized the oil camps which in the first part of the century produced some of the roughest, toughest and generally roughest communities in America.

Oil drilling in bays, tidelands and now in the continental shelf itself—which runs anywhere from 29 to 78 miles from the shore line—brought new personnel problems.

So far, exploration on the continental shelf—"the real edge" of the continent, where the shallow water suddenly drops off to 600-foot depths—has brought one producing area, the Creole field of 10 oil wells 1½ miles out. Magnolia is drilling six miles out in 12 feet of water. Humble Oil & Refining Co. plans to go 10 to 12 miles out in 40 to 50 feet of water to drill.

This everwidening oil exploration has brought its own labor relations problems, which wage increases have not entirely solved.

Quarters were not too unpleasant, recreation too conspicuous by its lack, and health conditions too risky, the drillers pulled up stakes.

On dry land this was solved by building model towns. Neat buildings, landscaped grounds, pleasant homes for drillers' families, recreation halls and medical facilities, all helped. Moreover, in hot countries the swimming pool became almost standard equipment.

When the oil companies drilled in the swamps and bays, they built quarter boats for the men. Inside were neat dormitories with showers and wall lockers, and recreation rooms.

When they went out into the bays they usually maintained camps on shore if they were any distance from towns and cities, and had their own water taxi service.

However, tropical storms sometimes marooned drillers on the rigs, so sleeping and eating facilities were maintained on the barges and men have lived there in fair comfort as long as three days before the weather relented and let them return to shore.

and asked Wyatt for a prompt report. Wyatt said that present priorities, allocations and subsidies will continue, along with the ceilings on new houses—$10,000 on the purchase price and $80 on the monthly rental.

Takes Poke At Congress
Mr. Truman, in a statement which accompanied his action, declared that "the law of supply and demand operating in the market place will, from now on, serve the people better than would continued regulation of prices by the government."

In restoring the national economy to a control-free basis just four days after the election, when Mr. Truman took one more poke at Congress which he has blamed repeatedly in the past for difficulties with his stabilization program. "The real basis of our difficulty is the unworkable price control law which the Congress gave us to administer," he declared. "The plain truth is that, under this inadequate law, price control has lost the popular support needed to make it work."

The office of price administration, which has handled ceilings and other controls, will be continued for the time being to supervise sugar rationing and the ceilings on sugar, rice and rent. But price administrator Paul Porter, who took over last June when Chester Bowles resigned in the midst of the extension battle with Congress, is expected to step out shortly.

Navy Secret Lookouts Helped To Win War In An Old Bowling Alley

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Newsfeature Writer

New York—(AP)—On the moonlight-splashed Pacific, an American submarine nosed to within 100 yards of a Japanese ship, then fired its torpedo.

Despite the moon and the daring short range, the Japanese crew never spotted the sub. And the submarine commander was confident they wouldn't.

His assurance of safety stemmed from the eyes and vision studies of some American girls—thousands of miles away in a former bowling alley on Long Island. The girls were a strange kind of "naval lookouts" working in a secret wartime project just made public. Their object was to obtain accurate information on just what and how well human eyes can see under many different conditions of light by day or night.

Fifty girls, all young college graduates, served as "lookouts" during the three-year study conducted by the Office of Scientific Research and Development, and supervised by H. Richard Blackwell, now director of the Vision Research Laboratory at the University of Michigan.

Their vision laboratory was a 60-foot-long building which once had been a double bowling alley. There the girls simulated the operating conditions of human vision. They did it simply by watching a screen on which were projected images of different sizes and brightnesses. Others helped in compiling and correlating the data on how well and how quickly the girls could see the various pictures.

Put into application, Blackwell said, their studies gave greater safety and accuracy to U. S. submarines, helped to save the lives of airmen forced down at sea and gave clues on painting airplanes for better camouflage. In peacetime, the vision studies promise increased safety in air traffic.

The results given to submarine commanders, he continued, told them how closely they could approach an enemy—whether 100 yards or 5,000 yards—under different conditions of visibility.

Liferests were equipped during the war with chemical dyes to color the sea as a signal for searching aircraft. The studies showed that these dyes were more effective if they spread over a large area. It was more important to make the colored water patches large rather than bright.

The type of paint colors for camouflaging airplanes, particularly the Black Widow night fighter, was another clue resulting from the research, Blackwell said. There were other uses from the studies, but these still are classified as secret.

For civilian flying, he continued, the studies will serve in determining the effectiveness of airport beacons, and in telling how soon a flier might be able to see

Quartette Proves Outstanding For Town Hall Opener

When the Philharmonic Male Quartet company opened the new Escanaba Town Hall series at the William Oliver Memorial auditorium last night, they were received with enthusiasm, and their dramatic entrance filled the audience with speculation. The "Pillgrim Song" by Tchaikowsky was the outstanding number of the first group of songs. It did justice to the fine voices of the quartet members.

The featured soloist, Annette Olsen, stole the hearts of her listeners. The fair, dark haired lass has a way of putting feeling into every song. She made a last minute change in her program, substituting "Apres Un Reve" by Fauré for "With Verdure Clad" from "The Creation" by Handel.

Many of her songs were in French. Margo Smith showed herself to be a versatile pianist, switching from light classical to heavy operatic and back to semi-classical.

The voices of Gunther Decker, Howard Hill, George Grammer Smith and Leslie Arnold blended into beautiful three part harmony. The quartet at times featured various members but as a whole stuck close to harmony. "I Won't Kiss Katy" was received with great applause. It is a Jugoslav folk song written in the rhythm of the native folk music and has within it rapid and successive changes of tempo.

Miss Olsen received a tremendous ovation for her rendition of "My Hero" from the "Chocolate Soldier." Her clear, strong voice held the attention of the audience and was light refreshment from the harmony of the quartet.

The quartet sang novelty tunes which captivated the audience and among these were "The Song of the Flea" by Moussorgsky and "Who Killed Cock Robin?" arranged by Gunther Decker. The quartet also sang semi-classical songs and that would of necessity include a Gershwin tune. The quartet chose "I've Got Rhythm."

Miss Olsen sang "Summer Time" and "One Kiss" for encores while the quartet selected "The Animals Are Coming" and "Stout Hearted Men."

Jet Pilot Sprints To Neck Victory In Pimlico Futurity

Baltimore, Nov. 9 (AP)—Maine Chance farm's Jet Pilot, turning on the power to lead all the way, gave Mrs. Elizabeth Arden Graham's colors a second straight victory in the Pimlico futurity today by scoring a neck victory over Calumet farm's Fervent before a crowd of 25,000.

Sprinting into the lead from the outside post position in the field of nine juveniles in this mile and a sixteenth test, the chestnut son of Blenheim 2nd-Black Wave turned back the stretch bid of the Calumet colt to pick up $37,615 and boost his earnings to $87,830.

Pitt threw a baffling five-man line, with four line backers, at the Bucks, and halted Ohio's ground game inside the 10-yard line four times.

The Panthers outscored the Buck's in first downs, 12 to 10, and outgained them rushing, 169 to 117 yards, but Ohio had the edge in the air, piling up 226 yards to Pitt's 96.

Houghton Priest, 80, Observes 51st Year

Houghton, Mich.—Fifty-one years ago Friday, Msgr. Anton J. Rezek, now 80, came to Houghton to become pastor of St. Ignatius church. He never has left.

There was no special ceremony Friday. Msgr. Rezek carried on his usual clerical duties.

A journalist, historian and lecturer, Msgr. Rezek is the dean by age and ordination of all priests of the diocese of Sault Ste. Marie and Marquette.

After coming to Houghton, he helped establish the Indian orphanage at Assinins in Baraga county and directed construction of St. Ignatius church. For his two volume work on early ecclesiastical history of the upper peninsula, published in 1907, Marquette university conferred on him an honorary doctor of laws degree in 1912.

Born in Austria, a farmer's son, Msgr. Rezek was educated in Europe and Canada. He came to the United States in 1887 and was ordained at Marquette, Mich., in 1890. Early assignments were at parishes in Menominee, Mackinac Island, Gladstone and Crystal Falls, all in Michigan.

Bishop James J. Davis, of Puerto Rico, was inspired as a youth by Msgr. Rezek.

Manager Plan Attacked

THE manager system of municipal government continues to make gains throughout the country, although now and then there are recessions because of the fact that either the public or the city officials have developed a misunderstanding concerning its functions and objectives.

Such a development has occurred in Kenosha, Wis., where the city manager has resigned and the manager plan is under attack by the organized labor forces. Kenosha labor, a weekly union labor newspaper, charges that the system has failed to remove politics from the city hall.

In a recent editorial, Kenosha Labor states:

"After observing the operation of the city manager form, and after seeing five city managers come and go in 25 years, it is apparent that all that it has been done is to move politics from the open to the star chamber."

We believe the labor newspaper's comment is significant. Because so much public trust has been built up for the manager system in the past couple decades, city managers and councilmen sometimes become imbued with the fallacious idea that they can run the show on their own and not let the city's stockholders in on their official plans and activities.

The star chamber session is a menace to city manager government. It starts rumors, misunderstandings and public resentment against an administration. Kenosha's present difficulties should be a reminder to city officials in Escanaba, Marquette, Sault Ste. Marie and every other community, where the manager system is in operation, that they should always strive for "daylight" government. Retention of public confidence in the manager system is much more important than any secret maneuver, even though the latter at the time may appear to be for the best interests of the city.

Deer Season Approaches

THE Michigan deer hunting season, opening Nov. 15, next Friday morning, will draw a record number of 300,000 hunters and they will probably kill 100,000 bucks in the two week period from Nov. 15 to Nov. 30. Last year the official count of deer killed during the open season was 93,000 and this figure will almost certainly be increased this season.

How many hunters will also be killed is a matter of considerable concern. Despite all the safety campaigns that have been waged year in and year out to encourage hunters to use extreme care with their high powered deer rifles, there still are a dangerously high percentage of "trigger-happy" hunters who are quick to fire at anything that moves, man or beast.

In an effort to reduce hunting accidents, automatic rifles will be limited to six shots but that hardly will be much of a factor in reducing the hazard. A guy who fires away six shots as fast as he can pull the trigger may as well be outfitted with a machine gun.

A big deer hunting season is anticipated for many reasons, not the least of which is the fact that hunters had little to cheer about during the duck season. The unseasonably delightful fall weather, coupled with other factors, wiped out the duck flight in this territory. The deer, however, are here and if snow arrives early in the season, which seems likely, the hunt will reach record proportions.

Now, before the season opens, is the time for hunters to contemplate the situation, to weigh the hazards and to vow that they will scrupulously adhere to the principles of gun safety.

Error in Count

DIFFICULTIES encountered in arriving at a correct tally of the votes cast in the Delta county legislative race again reveal the need for a revamping of the election board set-up.

Unofficial returns, as reported to the Escanaba Daily Press, indicated that Roy A. Jensen, Republican, had won by a narrow margin and would be the first Republican to represent Delta county in the legislature in about fifteen years. However, the canvassing board discovered that an error had been made in counting the votes in a Gladstone precinct.

Errors of this kind are to be expected under the present set-up. The clerks at the polls work from early morning until 8 p. m., checking registrations and handing out ballots to the voters. But their work doesn't end when the polls close. Usually exhausted after more than a full day's work, they must begin the tedious job of counting the ballots, a task which keeps crews in some of the large precincts busy until three and four o'clock the next morning.

This is too much to expect from any election board. The men and women who have worked the many hours from the opening to the closing of the polls should not have to do the extra job of counting the votes the rest of the night. Why not appropriate a few dollars more to hire a fresh crew of tabulators to take over the job after the polls close?

Smoke Nuisance Licked?

THE public has cause to hope that the improvements being made at the city steam plant will eliminate the smoke and fly ash nuisance that has existed at the plant for the past several years. The installation of new stokers and the eventual construction of a 120-foot steel stack are designed to correct the condition that has rightfully brought down the wrath of property owners in the vicinity of the plant, many of whom are customers of the steam service.

Obviously elimination of the smoke and fly ash nuisance emanating from the steam plant must be accomplished if the city hopes to remain in the commercial steam business. Business firms located near the plant hardly could be expected to tolerate indefinitely a situation that brought down a flood of carbon particles upon them every time the wind blows from the north.

The new improvements may do the trick, not only in correcting the nuisance but also improving the efficiency at the steam plant.

Hook Is Defeated

THE defeat of Frank Hook as congressman from Michigan's 12th district gives the Upper Peninsula an united front in the U. S. house of representatives. Both congressmen representing the area in the new congress will be Republicans, Bennett in the 12th district and Bradley in the 11th district. The results should be more beneficial to the constituents of the Upper Peninsula, who in the past two years found themselves divided on issues important to the area because their representatives were on opposite sides of the political fence.

Another affect of the Republican landslide in Tuesday's election that should not be passed unnoticed is the defeat of Rep. Andrew May in Kentucky. The tieup of Rep. May with the unsavory Garsson combine and scandalous war profits was revealed last summer. The defeat of May removes him from the legislative scene, and for that reason the public has cause to cheer. However, the people still have a right to know all about May's connection with the Garssons. The investigation should not cease with May's defeat for reelection.

DOWN ON THE FARM

(Grand Rapids Herald)

After World War I we sang "How You Gonna Keep 'Em Down on the Farm?" We've changed our tune since then, and the reason isn't hard to find. It's in the stories of people like 19-year-old Dale Rosel of Conklin, and his 18-year-old wife Helen, and thousands of others across this fertile land.

Dale, who farms 240 acres in partnership with his uncle, has just been awarded the "American Farmer Degree" by the Future Farmers of America. The year before he'd been named a "Star Farmer."

All over America, boys and girls are learning that there is money to be made by smart farming. They are learning the satisfactions of independence and the graciousness of country living. They are discovering that, with success, they can enjoy all the pleasures the Cities can offer plus what they have on their home acres.

This isn't new. It's been going on for years. Here in our own Western Michigan community we've been seeing young people succeeding as farmers, taking the top prizes at the fairs and stock shows, finding a new pride in their chosen profession, and getting the most out of life that life has to offer.

Dale's example of earning more than $1,000 from farm projects while in his senior year in High School is duplicated many times. Others like him are raising thoroughbred stock and planting certified seed and making good.

Time was when country boys and girls dreamed of the day they could go to the City to win success, when some of them were envious of the opportunities City boys and girls had.

Now the situation is reversed.

READERS WANT TO KNOW

Kansas City: A comparison of the words "wind" and "window" brings up the question: What does the "-ow" of "window" mean?—R. P.

Answer: Window evolved from the Icelandic vinduga, meaning, "the wind's eye." Another familiar "eye" word is "daisy," from the Anglo-Saxon daeges eage, "the day's eye," an allusion to the sun, which the flower resembles.

Oklahoma City: How does one pronounce "visor" (of a cap)?—O. D.

Answer: The dictionaries list both "VY-zer" and "VIZZ-er." In Standard American, the prevailing pronunciation is: VY-zer.

Georgetown: Hillbillies on the radio call a guitar a "GIT-er." When I correct my children for saying "GIT-er," they say it's right because they hear it that way on the radio.—Mrs. R. E. S.

Answer: For years I have tried to emphasize that "the radio" is simply a passive means of communication, like the telephone. The fact that you hear something over the radio is no more a guarantee of its correctness or truth than if you hear it over a telephone. It is the individual broadcaster, not the radio, who does the talking; and, obviously, some broadcasters make errors. Guitar is correctly pronounced: gi-TAIR.

Washington: Please tell me how to pronounce the word diocese. And what is the correct plural?—H. L. M.

Answer: Diocese is pronounced: DY-uh-

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

New York—From Senator Fulbright of Arkansas comes the "Suggestion" that President Truman resign. This has a fine, logical sound. The voters repudiated Mr. Truman and, therefore, he should not remain in office as a lame-duck president for another two years.

At first glance it seems to be a way out of the narrow cage of the constitution. There is nothing in the constitution to prevent the President from naming a Republican as secretary of state. There is nothing to prevent him from resigning and thereby allowing the Republican secretary of state to become president.

Let's say that the President names Senator Vandenberg as secretary of state. It would be a logical choice since Vandenberg has pioneered the Republican cooperation with Secretary Byrnes' foreign policy.

—WOULD GIVE HEAD START—

Vandenberg becomes president. Logically then, he might put Byrnes back in the office of secretary of state to carry out the policy on which both Republicans and Democrats agree. That should be productive of real harmony in our approach to the world.

But it's when you come to examine the practical aspects of such a shift, that the difficulties are apparent. First of all is the question of how President Truman would pick his Republican successor. The man he named would inevitably have a big headstart in the 1948 race. Choosing his own cabinet and his own administrative assistants, the new Republican president would almost assure himself of nomination and re-election two years from now unless he bungled his opportunities in the most hopeless way.

One proposal is that President Truman call on the Republicans in the House and Senate to agree on a man. The rivalries within the GOP, however, are so intense that it is hard to see how any agreement could be reached.

A Republican chosen without such an agreement might find himself facing even a tougher congress than Mr. Truman faces. The Republican majority would be certain to resent the fact that a Democratic president had named his Republican successor.

—NOT PRACTICAL PLAN—

Plainly, the proposal is not nearly so practical as it seems at first sight to be. You come smack up against the harsh fact that it is a real advantage to the Republicans to keep Mr. Truman pinned in office as a lame duck for the next two years. It is a political advantage that adds a lot to their chances for 1948.

The Republican majorities will have power without responsibility. Poor Mr. Truman will have responsibility without power. That is what happens under our system when the executive and the legislative branches are divided between the two parties. While the Republican majorities may balk and obstruct, they can duck the blame and point the finger of scorn at the President. They can spend the legislative time digging up the dead past and waving it in the political breeze.

In the aftermath of the election there is earnest talk of cooperation for the good of the nation. One can only hope to God that it materializes.

—HOOVER'S DILEMMA RECALLED—

Anyone who is candid must admit that the prospects for such cooperation are not bright. There is the unholy precedent of 1931 and '32. Herbert Hoover writhed in agony during those two tragic years.

The unhappy Hoover never presented a program even halfway adequate to check the depression. But even if he had had such a program, he would not have come within miles of getting it past the Democratic majority in the House.

After long, lean years out of office, the Democrats wanted to put the Republicans on the spot. John Nance Garner was elected speaker of the House by the triumphant Democrats. Garner actually proposed to spend hundreds of millions of dollars for relief. The nation sank deeper in despair as the political sparring went on and on.

In Hoover's bleak of triumph on Tuesday night, one could detect a note of vindication at long last and with it an overtone of revenge-is-sweet. Belabored, bedeviled Herbert Hoover would have been more than human if he had resisted that election-night temptation. Fourteen years are a long time in any man's life.

The reality of a House divided against itself is not evaded by circumventing the constitution. Senator Fulbright also said he would introduce a constitutional amendment providing that when executive and legislature are held by opposing parties, the nation shall hold an election to select a new president. The path to amendment is thorny and rugged. But if we have anything like the political vitality of the founding fathers left in us, we shall have to take that path.

Have you heard about the gal who ditched her football player boy friend because she heard another girl praise his "wonderful passes"?

seess (not -seez). The plural is dioceses, pronounced: DY-uh-see-sez.

Sacramento: To settle an argument, should a person always follow the word "Mrs."—B. S.

Answer: Yes. Abbreviations are followed by a period. Mrs. is the abbreviation of the word mistress.

Trimble: Recently I heard the word bouillon (clear soup) pronounced "boo-ILL-yun." Correct?—L. E. S.

Answer: No. The dictionaries favor the French pronunciation: boo-YAW(N). But in America the customary pronunciation is: bull-YON, the first syllable to rhyme with "full," the second to rhyme with "don."

Clear as Crystal

Good Morning!

By The Bugler

CANVASSING VOTES —For the past several days we have had the opportunity of watching men at work—canvassing the votes cast in Delta county in last Tuesday's election. It may sound like a simple job. If it does, it isn't.

It is neither easy nor simple because of the carelessness in the work of too many election inspectors and clerks in too many Delta county voting precincts. Because of this carelessness, the canvassing board members are inclined to open the tally books, turn a couple pages, groan, and toss the books across the room. Later these are retrieved, returned to the precinct election officials with orders to: 1. Sign them; 2. total the tallies; 3. correct errors; 4. just straighten out the whole mess with a recount of the votes cast.

MEN AT WORK—The county canvassing board is composed of John Wolf of Escanaba, John F. Richardson of Gladstone acting in the absence of the official member, and Edward LaMotte of Garden. They are assisted by County Clerk J. Theodore Ohlen.

The county board of canvassers is appointed by the county board of supervisors, and are paid for their labors, so perhaps we should feel no sympathy for them. They have a job to do, and they do it. At the same time the time required in canvassing votes could be reduced with consequent lower cost if the election officials in the voting precincts were all clearly informed on their work, and practiced what they were taught.

Perhaps that time may come. Meanwhile the canvassing board must do its own work with an eagle eye if errors—unintentional though they be—are to be kept to a minimum.

TOWNSHIPS BEST —For some reason not easily explained, the record of the votes cast in township precincts are in the majority better kept than they are in the cities of Escanaba and Gladstone.

Why this should be so is a little difficult to understand, unless the township folks are more impressed with the responsibility of the task they do. Then, too, the township election inspectors are more inclined to attend the annual training schools for election officials held in the court house prior to each election.

We visited the last such training school held at the court house last fall—and not one election official from Escanaba was present. The reason for this, we hasten to add, was that none of the election inspectors and clerks for city precincts had yet been appointed. The appointments were made after the school was held, although in the majority of instances the inspectors and clerks are reappointed for each election.

It would be beneficial if the appointments could be made earlier and the election inspectors and clerks trained to do their work more efficiently.

THE UNOFFICIAL —On the basis of unofficial election returns candidates for president concede victory to their opponent. On the basis of unofficial returns victorious candidates make speeches. And on the basis of unofficial election returns bets are collected and bets are paid.

Where do these unofficial elec-

INTO THE PAST

10 Years Ago—1936

A mystery in the election returns of last Friday which is causing a great deal of discussion and conjecture is that the straw votes tamen did not point to the overwhelming landslide in favor of the Roosevelt administration.

Lt. John M. Bartella, U. S. N. Infantry, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Bartella, 516 Ninth street, made his first solo flight at Randolph field recently. Bartella is a graduate of West Point academy.

Escanaba teachers who attended the conference of the Wisconsin State Teachers association in Milwaukee were: Gertrude Sheehan, school nurse, Mary Meighen, grade supervisor, Josephine Campbell, ungraded room, and Elizabeth Leiper, open air room.

Dr. and Mrs. Frank P. Bohn of Newberry are visiting at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Walsh.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Needham, Seventh avenue south, are the parents of a daughter born Nov. 7 at St. Francis hospital.

20 Years Ago—1926

Thirteen perished in the ruins of a tornado which struck a school house yesterday and at least twenty more were injured. The twisting wind destroyed several homes in Cedarville, Md.

Snow and freezing temperatures swept on a gale which attained a maximum velocity of forty eight miles an hour, made yesterday one of the most disagreeable days this territory has experienced in some time.

Lawrence Powell, Jr., three and one half year old from Chicago arrived in the city Monday via the C. & N.W. Ry. all alone, to make his home with his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Nels Kelmpe of Wells.

Grant Olson spent Sunday in Milwaukee.

Miss Lillian Grenier is visiting tion returns come from?

They are assembled by the newspapers of the country and presented over the air and through the press so the country may know in a matter of hours what otherwise would not be known for days and even weeks.

Take Delta county, for instance. The outcome of the vote in last Tuesday's election, if it were not for the newspaper, would not be known until the board of canvassers had completed its work some three days after election day. When a close race develops on the basis of unofficial returns, people know of it, and look forward with interest to the outcome.

NEED REVAMPING—There is not the slightest doubt that in this day of telephone, telegraph, radio and auto here should be some faster official method devised for collecting and announcing official election returns.

Wisconsin's election laws include a provision that returns from each precinct in each county must be telephoned to the office of the county clerk as soon as the vote tally is completed. The tally books are delivered later.

FINAL EDITION—Such official procedure relieves newspapers of the necessity for contracting each precinct and Wisconsin newspapers get their election returns from the clerk in each county. The possibility of error is reduced in this way.

Incidentally, the Daily Press last Wednesday morning printed two editions, one for the mail and the other for city carriers. The last contained later election information. The following day a subscriber unused to such things, wanted to know whether "final edition" meant the Press was suspending publication thereafter.

Q. In computing my leave while in the Navy, should I count "boot leave" against my leave credits?

A. Yes "boot leave" is charged as annual leave and should be deducted from your total accrued leave in computing terminal leave pay.

Q. When will the World War II Victory Medal be available for distribution?

A. Due to the shortage of certain necessary alloys from which the medal is made, it is expected that it will be six to twelve months before the decoration will be available for distribution.

Q. Will you give me a recipe for making a tomato pie?

A. Line a pie pan with plain pastry, mix 3-4 cup brown sugar with 2 heaping tablespoons flour and sprinkle bottom of pie crust with half of it. Slice tomatoes and fill pan and sprinkle rest of sugar and flour on top, add 1 tablespoon of butter dotted over top. Sprinkle with cinnamon and cloves, add 4 tablespoons lemon juice and bake until the juice cooks out thick, and the crust is golden brown and the tomatoes are soft.

Q. What is meant by a partial vacuum being made at the bottom of the room?

A. Because a partial vacuum is made at the bottom of the room, as soon as the warm air of the room has ascended to the ceiling or made its escape from the room; and the cold air from the hall or outside rushes under the door to supply the void.

Q. Why "Palm Sunday"?

A. When Jesus entered Jerusalem on one occasion, his followers decorated the streets with palms and other foliage; our Palm Sunday commemorates this.

Q. If a hole were bored through the center of the earth from the United States, would it come to the surface in Asia?

A. No; it would come through well below the Equator, since the United States is north of it.

Q. Who always "went forth to battle but always fell"?

A. The Irish.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington—Senator Fulbright's proposal that President Truman step down has thrown the Arkansas brain trust at the White House into a spasm. They take it as a personal insult, a move aimed directly at their near monopoly-hold on Truman.

Most people don't realize it, but Arkansas have actually edged out Missourians when it comes to White House brain-trusters. Leslie Biffle, secretary of the senate and closest friend Truman has, is from Arkansas. John Steelman, the war reconverter, was born and reared in Arkansas though more latterly claimed by Alabama. John Snyder, the secretary of the treasury, spent all his life as an Arkansas bank-teller until moving to Missouri recently.

For a long time this group has kept its Arkansas colleague Senator Fulbright pretty much out in the cold. He had married a Pennsylvanian, lived a long time in London, and just didn't rate as an Arkansan any more. All jobs for the state were handed out by the White House clique, usually operating through Senator McClellan, the other Arkansas senator. Fulbright got nothing.

So now the Arkansas boys are claiming that Fulbright merely is piqued, proposes that Truman step down because he is jealous and job-hungry. All in all, there's a terrific stew among Arkansans in the nation's capital.

NOTE—Those who know Fulbright don't concur that jealousy is behind his move for a Republican in the White House. Actually, Fulbright pioneered the most important policy this nation has adopted in years—the resolution adopted during the war whereby world cooperation became the fixed policy of both political parties. Fulbright's far-sighted statesmanship is largely responsible for Senator Vandenberg's participation at the conferences in Paris and New York.

—"THE FIRED-BY-TRUMAN" CLUB—

Former Secretary of Commerce Henry Wallace and former Assistant Attorney General O. John Rogge met unexpectedly in the corridor of a Seattle hotel the other day. Both men had been fired by President Truman, after their suppressed views were aired by this columnist.

"Well," Wallace said, "Welcome to My Club."

"I'm glad to sign up with you," replied the ex-justice department attorney.

"You and I can both thank Drew Pearson for our being out of the government," Wallace said.

"Yes," Rogge agreed.

"And I think we both ought really to thank Drew," Wallace continued. "It didn't hurt us a bit."

"Yes," concluded Rogge, "we should both feel grateful. I've never felt so happy now that I'm out of the government."

—REVAMPING WAGNER ACT—

Members of the National Labor Relations Board are now holding a significant session which may bring changes in that most controversial of domestic questions, the Wagner Labor Relations Act. In fact, the NLRB may beat the GOP congress to the draw and take the initiative in changing the Magna Charta of organized labor.

Unquestionably sour labor relations were a root cause of the election turnover, and many GOP congressmen are pledged to remedy it.

Members of the ULRB, therefore, have summoned a conference of 25 lawyers representing labor and 25 lawyers representing management for a frank discussion of what's wrong with the Wagner Act.

Following this discussion, some members of the board propose going to Senator Wagner and suggesting that, as one of the crowning moves of his long and distinguished career, he propose certain changes in the act himself. Leader of this inside move is Jim Reynolds, brother of war correspondent Quentin Reynolds and Truman's latest appointee on the board.

VOTE CANVASS IS COMPLETED

Mrs. Patterson Holds 43 Vote Margin Over Roy Jensen

The official board of election canvassers in Delta county completed the canvass of Tuesday's general election yesterday morning, showing no change from Friday's figures in the close Jensen-Patterson race for the office of state representative.

The official figures revealed Mrs. Violet Patterson holding a 43 vote lead over the Republican nominee, Roy A. Jensen. There was no report from Jensen concerning the possibility of a recount but a definite announcement may be available Monday on this point.

The final figures in the Patterson-Jensen race showed a total of 4,794 for Patterson and 4,751 for Jensen.

The official totals for all contests, as reported from the board of canvassers, will be announced in Tuesday's Press.

Lack Spare Tire; No Dealer Stocks

Washington, (AP)—New passenger cars will lack a spare tire for some months to come, the Civilian Production Administration announced.

The control agency said nationwide surveys showed that demand for tires was as great in most areas last month as in June, with a similar shortage of small truck tires. CPA said only four per cent of the tire dealers reported any stock on hand.

Stanley Newton's Book, "Paul Bunyan", Is Here

"Paul Bunyan of the Great Lakes," latest book by Stanley D. Newton of Sault Ste. Marie, has arrived in Escanaba and is on sale at local bookstores. While there have been several juvenile Bunyan books in the past decade, this is the first Paul Bunyan publication for adults in many years. Packard and Company, 537 South Dearborn street, Chicago, are the publishers.

According to the Newton narrative, which has been carefully checked with dozens of lumberjacks, Paul Bunyan was born down the Tahquamenon River, on the old McNeerney farm site, in 1849. He passed on, or up, according to his lumberjack admirers, at the Pictured Rocks, about 1890. And there certainly were doing in Michigan's Upper Peninsula during the intervening crowded and eventful years.

There are men now living who knew Paul, men like Pete Vigant of Sault Ste. Marie, Matt Surrall of Newberry, and John I. Bellaire of Manistique. They worked for him, went fishing with him, and borrowed his eating tobacco and snooks, or snuff.

A Wild and Woolly Crew

A chapter in the book is devoted to Paul's height. The best authorities say that he was seventeen feet tall. Tiny, his pretty little Finn girl, was four feet one inch high, and every inch a beauty. Many other chapters are filled with the doings of Sourdough Sam, the camp cook; Joe Kadunk, the second cook; the famous three hundred cookies, who worked twenty-three and one-half hours a day; Johnny Inkslinger, the camp clerk and bookkeeper, and Forty Jones, the walking boss.

There are many pleasing tales of Chris Crosshaul, the straw boss; One-Eye LaRue, the barn boss and keeper of Babe, the Big Blue Ox; Awkward August, the camp gardener; and Bill Half-a-day, Ojibway lumberjack songster. They were a singing as well as a fighting crowd, and many of their songs are included.

Of course, Babe, the wonderful ox, had to have a special chapter. Then there were Benny, the off ox; Elmer, the moose terrier, and Tige, the son of Elmer, who came to a bad end. There is even a round-by-round account of a classic fight staged by a couple of tomatos, Alexander and Napoleon, a contest thoughtfully arranged by Forty Jones. The reader also learns why Lake Superior is so cold, and how Paul Bunyan had a marvelous gallstone operation.

The Great Pivot Hotel

The Winter of the Blue Snow and the Winter of the Black Snow are explained in detail, and much information is given about the marvelous Pivot Hotel, largest in the world, which once flourished in the Upper Peninsula. Owned and operated by Paul Bunyan, it had 8,000 rooms and 16,000 baths. Paul knew that every traveler likes a nice front room, so he built the hotel on a turntable or pivot. When the front rooms were all sold out, he turned the hotel around and kept right on selling front rooms, at front room rates, of course.

The book is getting some good reviews in metropolitan dailies. In The Chicago Tribune of Sunday, November 3, Walter Havighurst, author of "The Long Ships Passing," reviewed Newton's Paul Bunyan story, and there was a special sketch by James Swann, well known Chicago artist. Mr. Havighurst says:

"The Paul Bunyan legend has taken firmest hold in Michigan's Upper Peninsula. There the mythical logger has been a celebrated figure for half a century. There are many new stories and feats in this book, collected by the author from old logging men in Upper Michigan. The book is written with relish and it will be read in the same high spirit."

Mr. Newton has had a leading part in making Paul Bunyan an Upper Peninsula citizen, through his work as associate editor of Upper Peninsula Development Bureau publications. He was also largely instrumental in publicizing the district far and wide as the Land of Hiawatha.

"It is worthy of mention that the only enduring sagas thus far mothered by America—the Paul Bunyan and the Hiawatha tales—are grounded in large part in Michigan's Upper Peninsula," he says in the preface. Undoubtedly Stanley Newton is the chief factor in linking these great personages with this part of the State.

BIKE LICENSING SHOWS DECLINE

What Happened To 535 Machines Here Since '42 Peak Year?

What has happened to 535 bicycles licensed by the City of Escanaba police department in 1942 not accounted for in bicycle registrations of the past several years?

In 1942, peak year of bicycle registration in Escanaba, licenses were issued for 2040 machines. This year only 1475 bicycles were licensed, which is in itself an increase of 15 over the previous year.

The sharp break in bicycle registration came in 1943 when 1510 bikes were licensed here, a drop of 530 from the previous year. In 1944 the registrations dropped slightly to 1504.

Local police reported that many bicycles were licensed in 1942 as primary means of transportation for many adults during an era of extremely tight wartime restrictions upon the use of automobiles. Later many of these bicycles were set aside in basements and attics or transferred to minors who probably didn't bother to license them in succeeding years. At least that's the police department theory.

Some of the bicycles, of course, just wore out or were wrecked, but these should have been offset by the number of new machines purchased, particularly in the past year or two.

FINNISH NURSE—Sirkka Saarelainen, Finnish girl who arrived in the United States recently, is shown here at the St. Francis hospital, where she is employed as a laboratory technician.

Sirkka Saarelainen From Finland Is Lab Technician At St. Francis Hospital

An object lesson in correct English grammar is the gift which many visitors from Europe bring with them to the United States, and Sirkka Saarelainen, 27-year-old Finnish nurse who arrived here three months ago, has proved to be no exception. There were no split infinitives or double negatives in evidence as Miss Saarelainen commented enthusiastically:

ly on, "this beautiful country with such vast stores of food and clothing right before my eyes."

Sirkka is the niece of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Lampinen of Daggett and is employed at the St. Francis hospital as a laboratory technician. Her passport will allow her to stay in this "land of plenty" for two years and she expressed a desire to visit also on the west coast before returning to her native country.

When queried about what impressed her most upon her arrival in America, Sirkka lost no time in remarking about the miracle of no ration books. "In Finland we were allowed to purchase two pairs of rationed stockings each year and the quality of our shoes depended on whether or not we worked in the fields." No exceptions were made when it came to rationed, she continued. Even restaurant food demanded precious stamps.

Miss Saarelainen was born in the village of Lahti, Finland, and took up nurse's training in Helsinki, the country's capital.

She studied English for six years while attending high school and enrolled in a refresher course at the English, Finnish, British society at Helsinki last winter after deciding to make a trip to America. She also speaks Swedish and German.

The seasonal climate of the Upper Peninsula is lost upon Escanaba's most recent foreign visitor for she is already lonesome for the long bleak winters when the temperature varies between 20 and 30 below zero for five to six months out of the year.

During the war Sirkka spent four years in an army hospital in Helsinki where she learned first hand about deprivation, and the discomforts of war. She arrived here on August 19 and met her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Lampinen of Daggett, for the first time in Escanaba. Sirkka reports that American movies are presented quite often in Finland and her favorite actress is, of course, the Swedish star, Ingrid Bergman.

Domestic Water Conditioning Is A Big Industry

The domestic water conditioning industry is today finding itself big business, continuing on its way up-and fast. With perhaps a little less difficulty in obtaining materials as compared to some of the other fields, manufacturers of water softeners confidently expect this year to produce well over ten times as many units as their best prewar record of 8000, and there are perfectly sane men in the industry who do not consider it entirely impossible that in a year or two the present record may be improved by another ten fold leap in sales.

Hard water deposits more scale, naturally, than soft will do. A Purdue University Experiment station reported, after a series of tests, that at 118°F., 5 percent of the suspended matter was precipitated, but at 140°, 1.3 percent was precipitated, this is at normal home use, so, if water is to be hotter, it is more important than ever that it be free from scale forming minerals.

Nearly 80 percent of the American people live in areas where the ground or surface water is hard to some degree. The enormous toll exacted by hard water is actually known by comparatively few people. Those tiny particles of alkaline minerals—Calcium and Magnesium, most commonly react on soap to form insoluble gummy curds instead of suds. They often cause soap to leave a dulling film on dishes and glassware. They cause woollens and other fabrics to lose their fluffiness and assume a harsh scratchy texture. They clog automobile cooling systems. They cause literally a thousand other vexations and irritations about the house.

By putting the story in dollar and cents we may make the toll of hard water more clear to Mr. and Mrs. Home owner. Hard water annually exacts a toll of many millions of dollars in wasted soap with few people actually realizing how much more is consumed than in soft water. In a year's time this amounts to a sizable item in the family budget, as indicated by the following figures based tests by Prof. Faulk of Ohio University, a computation by the Michigan State Department of Health, and by the Sommer Chemical Testing Laboratory of Milwaukee. Actually, a family of four would use $12.83 worth more soap at 16¢ a pound (present average price) using water of 15 grains hardness than water of zero grains hardness.

Another big bite in the family income is exacted by the effect of hard water on washable fabrics. Clothes may wear out 25 and even 50 percent faster when washed in hard water. Also, it takes much longer to launder clothes in such water and then they haven't achieved their maximum cleanliness. The calcium in the water combines with the soap and dirt to form a gray curd which clings to the fibres, making them the familiar tattle tale gray. The ladies will be particularly interested in the effect of hard water on their precious nylons. Stockings washed in hard water show the fibres caked with calcium. They are more brittle and have lost most of the original softness and lustre retained by nylons washed in soft water. The same is true of men's shirts, the fibres become stiffer and they will wear out quicker than those washed in soft water. To make matters worse, the calcium deposit often turns yellow when ironed.

To better evaluate the damage done by hard water to the annual washable fabric budget for a family of four, based on the same tests quoted in a previous paragraph, it shows that the annual fabric budget runs to approximately $136.69. This figure is based on general fabrics used in and about the home namely, towels, bed clothing, tablecloths, mens, womens, and childrens clothing, dollies, curtains, etc. If these fabrics wear out 25 percent faster when washed in hard water that makes another $34.17 per year added to hard water's cost. According to the Michigan State Department of health another $6.00 may be added due to repairing, cleaning, and replacing hot water coils choked with scale. But that's only part of the story.

Scale inside a water heater serves as an insulator, requiring an estimated 25 percent more fuel to heat the water, this amounts to approximately $8.50 per year. Some medical people have indicated a relation between skin infections and the use of hard water because of the calcium curd left on the skin, which can carry infectious bacteria.

Summing it all up most observers believe that hard water costs each family more than $100 per year. To Mrs. Home Owner a factor which will appeal strongly to her is the effect of hard water on her carefully groomed hair, the stubborn bath tub ring is another

Cornell

Cornell—Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Tucker and J. C. Bowers from Jacksonville, Fla. are guests at the Kyle Bowers home in Cornell. Mrs. Tucker and J. C. Bowers are sister and brother of Kyle Bowers.

Among Cornell people who attended the Upper Peninsula Potato Show at Iron River on Oct. 31 were Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Ford, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Knaus, and Mr. and Mrs. Ted McFadden.

The Cornell 4-H Club organized the winter 4-H club last Monday night with about thirty young people enrolled in handicraft, sewing and tractor maintenance.

Miss Betty Buckland of Cornell was guest of honor at a wedding shower at the Cornell hall on Saturday Nov. 2. Miss Buckland received many useful gifts. The evening was spent playing games. A delicious lunch was served.

objectionable feature of hard water. Glassware shows up hard water to particularly bad advantage. The sticky hard water curd adheres to the glass and H. R. Black director of the division laboratory of Libbey Glass, Owens Illinois Glass Co., indicates that "if such films remain on the glass, a gradual corrosion takes place which permanently mars the surface of the glass."

With the severe shortages of soap and fabrics at the present time, it is more important than ever to consider how they are being wasted by hard water. Also considering the toll from the family income why should one be without water softening service. (Adv.)

Finnish Paul Bunyan, That's Waino Komula

Paul Bunyan of the Keweenaw timber country!

That's Waino Komula, 41-year-old, barrel-chested logger, who rose to prominence during the war years when he set new records in getting out the timber that helped to put Hitler and Hirohito out of business.

"There's many a fabulous tale being told about the exploits of Waino Komula of Toivola. Some are true, and others may be a little Bunyanesque, but still they are all good. For instance, you hear stories about how he has logged off 100 million feet of timber since he began operations on the Copper Range Mining company's tract shortly before Christmas in 1940. But Waino, although not the most modest person in the world, insists the figure is closer to 65 million. Strong as an ox, Waino is credited with a number of super-human feats, which would have made even the mighty Paul proud of himself. He weighs 270 pounds when he is eating "good," but at times has managed to reduce to 240 by strenuous dieting.

Told Nazis Off

Copper Country folks tell about the time Waino went to watch the pulpwood cutting operations at a German prisoner of war camp in the area. Three Nazis were engaged in loading a truck with pulpwood, and were conversing in German.

"Do you know what they are saying?", a bystander asked Waino. "They're saying that Americans are both dumb and weak."

About that time, the three prisoners were having difficulty in lifting a large stick of pulpwood.

"I'll show them that Americans aren't weak," Waino said, his dander up. He grabbed the log from the three German POWs and hoisted it into the truck without any assistance.

Gets High Output

Waino Komula and his crew of 150 Finnish woodsmen took out 22 million feet of timber in one of the hectic war years. Now, his crew is reduced to about 100, but he is still producing from 10 to 15 million feet annually. A hard worker himself, he appears to inspire his men to feverish activity on the job. His production per man-hours is reported to be the highest in the Upper Michigan logging industry. He uses all the latest equipment, and it was quite appropriate that the recent Loggers Congress at Houghton picked his operation for its demonstration of the mechanization of lumbering.

Waino really showed his stuff at the demonstration. His right hand almost constantly waving with a circular motion, he shouted to the "cat" operators and truck drivers, "Keep 'em rolling." It was the best exhibition of rapid, mechanized skidding, loading and hauling operations ever seen in the Copper Country.

A Song About Waino

To have worked for Waino is regarded as one of the best recommendations a woodsman could have in applying for a job. The story is told that one Finnish lumberjack once walked up to another timber operator and simply said: "Give me some tools, I used to work for Komula."

And so some ballad writer was inspired to compose a folk song, which is sung with a slightly Finnish accent in the lumber camps and downtown bars of the Copper Country. It goes something like this:

"I grab axe, I grab saw, I go to work for Komula.

Oh! saw, Oh! saw, Oh! saw.

He's got a swamp, a great big swamp, I go to work for Komula.

Oh! saw, Oh! saw, Oh! saw."

Other stanzas are simply variations of this theme.

Waino was born on a farm at Keweenaw Bay. After leaving school, he drove a milk truck for several years and then took a salesman's job with the Drott Tractor company.

He proved to be a good salesman, and sold more tractors and other logging equipment in the Copper Country than had ever been sold before. Late in 1940, he got himself a truck and tractor and with a crew of 10 men began cutting off some stumpage he bought from the Copper Range company. By the time the Japs bombed Pearl Harbor, he was logging on a good scale, using all the labor-saving machinery he could get his hands on. Now, he has about $75,000 invested in equipment. His list includes 10 trucks, eight tractors, two crane loaders and two bulldozers.

Waino is married and has two children. His daughter, Eleanor, 19 is a student at the University of Michigan, while his son, Arthur, 16, attends Baraga high school.

Adult School Schedule Of Classes Announced

The schedule of class meetings for the Escanaba Adult Education school has been announced for the coming term. In spite of the large registration so far, the school can still accommodate new students, it was announced by Charles L. Folio, director. Anyone desiring to enroll may attend any of the classes and register at that time.

More than 60 students registered for the knitting classes, and as last year, they have been divided into two sections. A large enrollment in the Swedish class has also made it necessary to divide it into two groups.

Considerable interest has been expressed in a class in "Labor Relations," and if a few more students are enrolled, an instructor will be obtained for this course.

Barbershop Singers To Meet Monday At Junior High School

All persons interested in barber shop harmony are invited to join the adult education class at the music room of the junior high school 8:30 o'clock Monday evening.

Much interest was displayed in this novel educational project at the first meeting last Wednesday. Temporary officers of the Escanaba chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Singing were appointed at the meeting, and permanent officers will be named Monday night.

Under the direction of Louis Hildebrand, Rotary club song leader, the harmonizers lost no time Wednesday night in singing Down by the Old Mill Stream, Jungle Town, Harvest Moon, Just a Dream of You Dear, and other favorites of the Gay Nineties.

Some of the old-time quartet singers were on hand at the first meeting. They included Bernard (Bunny) Dwyer of Deegan Court, fame, Mayor Marvin L. Coon, Arthur Goulis, Arthur Jensen, Edward Louis, Luther Krantz, Martin Olson, Lambert Peterson, and a score of others. John Groos played the piano.

Scout Fund Drive Opens Tomorrow At Powers-Spalding

Powers-Spalding, Mich.—A campaign to raise funds for the Boy Scout program in this area will begin on Monday, Nov. 11, under the direction of local Scouters.

Most of the funds will be used locally for camping facilities, advancement programs, training programs for local leaders, and for the expense of a trained field executive and upkeep of the U. P. headquarters.

Powers-Spalding has one unit of Scouts, Troop 477, sponsored by the North Menominee Lions club. The unit has been active during the past year in carrying out a Scouting program and participating in public service in this community.

Among the local citizens in the Scouting program are Roy Bagley and Donald LaLonde, who are the Scoutmasters, assisted by the following troop committeemen: Dr. John Tovey, L. Edward Berg, Rev. F. K. Seifert, Roland Larson, and Alfred LeBoeuf. All are volunteers who have given their time to create an interesting program for the boys of the community.

The committee hopes that Powers-Spalding residents will contribute to the fund-raising campaign and continue with the enthusiastic support which has made the Scouting program an outstanding success here.

The course on Great Books is expected to begin in about two weeks, with Miss Bernadette Brennan as one of the two instructors.

All Book Fines To Be Dropped During National Book Week

A special feature has been added this year to the usual program arranged by the library in celebration of National Book Week which will warm the hearts of library book lovers. In order to bring all books back into circulation, Nancy Thomas, librarian, has announced that all overdue books can be returned sans fines. This special moratorium on book fines has been arranged by the city council and will benefit everyone in possession of a library card by providing them with a more complete selection of books from which to choose.

Appropriately, as books have been called "bridges to the realms of fancy, to the wonders of science, to lands across the sea and to the development of the kind of understanding that can grow in the peace on earth," the theme chosen for National Book Week this year is, "Bridges Are Bridges." The public library has prepared several interesting exhibits, including as the focal point, a bridge in miniature, constructed by William J. Karas, lieutenant colonel, recently discharged from the Army Corps of Engineers. The bridge will be surrounded by scores of new books recently purchased and introduced to the public for the first time this week. Jean Trantavella is in charge of this display.

Upstairs, in the department in charge of Miss Winifred Harvey, there will be a display of many new and old books, including selections about Michigan and by

PLAN HONOR CAMP HERE

Consider Cusino State Forest Suitable Site

Munising — Negotiations have been started by the Michigan state corrections commission and the conservation department to determine the feasibility of establishing a prison honor camp in the Cusino state forest.

Gerald Buch, warden of the Marquette branch prison, and Ray Buckhor, director of education there, conferred at Cusino Wednesday, November 6, with A. M. Stebler, director of the wildlife experiment station, and John Hoffman, representative of the Munising Conservation club, and also inspected former CCC buildings to determine their suitability for the camp. Mr. Buch said that he was "impressed" by the possibilities.

Factors to be considered in the project, he declared, were barracks buildings, a dispensary, administration headquarters, a means of waste disposal, sanitation and hygiene.

The old CCC buildings may be adequate for the camp needs with a minimum of renovation, Buch and Stebler reported.

The corrections commission was interested in determining what types of work the camp inmates would do, and these, Stebler said, would include such as experimental deer feeding, trapping and tagging, upland game bird propagation, tree planting, controlled burning and providing for camp mechanics, carpenters, cooks, clerks and similar work.

While plans for the camp are only in the preliminary stage now, the site, it was expected, may take care of from 25 to 50 prisoners, with middle-aged men selected because of their emotional stability, and they would be men who are on their way toward being released from confinement.

A site for such a camp, Buch declared, must be isolated, and must be accessible by roads.

While the conservation department would provide working time employment, it would also contribute toward off-duty occupation by providing such things as woodcraft projects and a shop, and the prison would supply the requirements for an educational program and other projects.

The camp project would require two or three more men at the wildlife station, Mr. Stebler said, to act as job foremen. They would be responsible for the prisoners while working on jobs, and when they were returned to the camp, that responsibility would be assumed by the camp custodian.

The Department of Corrections, is "very interested" in the project, Mr. Buch said. He pointed out that the camp, if established, would be for handling men on a group, rather than individual, basis. He said the undertaking would "possibly open a new era in prisoner handling". The "institution" would become a "showplace" for corrections commission.

While paper work on the project may proceed, nothing definite on the undertaking will be done for about a year, Buch said. Temporary buildings and sawmills which are now being used by a logging contractor in that area will wind up operations in that time and then the area will be more isolated.

The possibility of using prison labor on state projects during periods of great demand for manpower, and taking them off those jobs when "civilians" are in need of them is one thought behind the Cusino honor camp. The size of the Cusino camp would be regulated, also, by overhead costs, the nature of projects to be worked on and the manpower needs.

For two or three years Jackson prison has used prisoners on projects at the state game farm, near Mason, on pheasant propagation projects, and it has been highly successful, with no disciplinary problems involved and the men and two state departments cooperating fully.

Addison Disease Cure Is Reported

London—Cure of a case of Addison's disease by the grafting of an adrenal gland from another patient is announced by Dr. L. R. Broster, surgeon to Charing Cross Hospital, and Dr. H. Gardiner-Hill, physician to St. Thomas's Hospital, in a report to the British Medical Association here.

The patient, a 33-year old woman, had been ill for six years with nervousness and depression and stomach trouble which she described as a "nervy tummy." A year before the operation her skin took on a smoky brown color characteristic of Addison's disease.

For a year before the operation she had to take four teaspoonfuls of salt daily and also was given injections of adrenal cortical hormone. Failure of the adrenal glands to produce the normal amount of this hormone is the cause of Addison's disease.

SUPERSTITION in this Enlightened Age

★ Do you still bury a dishrag to remove a wart on your finger? Perhaps not, but some do. Yes, even asafetida is still worn on a string about the neck to ward off illness.

These cases are extreme, but surprisingly superstitious notions about disease and treatment are held in this enlightened age.

G. W. Jackson Announces Circuit Judge Candidacy

Glenn W. Jackson, veteran Gladstone attorney, yesterday announced his candidacy for the office of circuit judge of the 25th judicial circuit. The incumbent, Circuit Judge Frank A. Bell, of Negaunee, who has served for 19 years, has announced that he will not be a candidate for re-election following his present term, which expires Dec. 31, 1947.

Other candidates already announced are Ray Derham, of Iron Mountain, and Kenneth Doyle, of Menominee. The primary election will be held Feb. 17, 1947.

Mr. Jackson has engaged in the practice of law at Gladstone for the past 34 years, all of which he served as city attorney at Gladstone. He also served six years as prosecuting attorney of Delta county.

The announcement of Mr. Jackson's candidacy follows:

"Only after having received numerous and insistent requests from lawyers and others to do so, I have decided to announce my candidacy for the office of circuit judge. I have been led to believe that my candidacy will be welcomed by the bar and the voters of the twenty-fifth judicial circuit. I received the degree of bachelor of arts from the University of Michigan in 1908 and juris doctor in 1910. In 1910 and 1911 I practiced in Chicago, after which I returned to Gladstone, from where I have been engaged in practice for the last thirty-four years. My practice has been general in character, in state and federal courts and has included six years as prosecuting attorney for Delta County and thirty-four years as city attorney of the City of Gladstone.

"The office of circuit judge is of great importance to the people of this circuit, so important that it should not be handed out as a favor to any candidate. I do not solicit support as a favor to myself. I merely request that the voters make careful inquiry into the qualifications of the various candidates and then vote for the one best qualified."

SPUD GROWERS HOLD MEETING

Cadillac Parley Calls For More Rigid Inspections

Cadillac—Expanded to include all branches of the industry, the re-organized Michigan Potato Development association Thursday requested the legislature to enact a law providing for federal-state compulsory inspection of all potato shipments at loading points.

The association declared this service is needed to assure consumers an honest pack, to protect growers and shippers of quality potatoes and to safeguard the reputation of Michigan tubers wherever they are offered for sale.

Roy Rossman, Greenville grower and shipper, reported his experience under compulsory inspection had been unsatisfactory, but friends of the service attributed poor enforcement to the lack of a supporting law. Douglas Jenks, Orleans grower, believed the industry would be served best by more rigid inspection of potato offerings in retail stores.

"Let's not pass the buck to the retailer," declared William R. Keasey of Lansing, secretary of the Michigan Retail Grocers association. Let's have inspection at both ends."

He denied a charge that retailers were mixing grades in putting up peck sacks for consumers.

"We don't grow potatoes and retailers haven't enough clerical help to make consumer packs," Keasey reported. "All growers prefer to buy potatoes in peck sacks bearing the name of the producer or shipper doing the grading and packing."

Fred P. Hibst of Cadillac, manager of the Michigan Potato Growers' Exchange; W. B. Meredith of Plainwell and Clarence Perkins of Edmore reported federal-state inspection is especially desirable one out-of-state shipments.

The association adopted new by-laws providing for representation of counties and the election of directors by districts. The executive committee, including the officers, was authorized to set up a quality marketing program built around the use of an advertised trademark. The program will be financed with voluntary memberships of $1 a year plus a grower assessment of 50 cents for each acre of potatoes and a shipper assessment of 50 cents for each car shipped.

The association gave the agricultural committee of the Detroit Board of Commerce a vote of thanks for its assistance in arousing growers and shippers to the need of a better quality pack to give the Michigan industry its rightful share of Detroit consumers' potato dollars.

Floyd Jenkins of Kalkaska was elected president of the reorganized association, succeeding Henry Christensen of Edmore. Other officers are: Vice president, Clarence Perkins of Edmore; secretary, Fred P. Hibst of Cadillac; directors, W. B. Meredith of Plainwell, Edward Parmeter of Rockford, Elias Haskell of Attica, Russell Marks of McBain, Clayton Ford of Cornell; Lawrence Lindstrom of Iron River, H. D. Jeffers of Detroit, Albert Greats of Iron River, Arthur Sackett of Edmore, W. W. Fosse of Lansing and Forrest Smith of Lansing.

THERE SIMPLY ARE NOT ENOUGH NEW CHEVROLETS TO GO AROUND

We are getting our fair share of the current production of new Chevrolet passenger cars and trucks. And as strikes and shortages decrease, as the Chevrolet plants are able to produce more and more new passenger cars and trucks, we'll get more and more of them to deliver to our customers.

Meanwhile, as long as shortages do exist, it is our purpose to apportion our share of the new Chevrolets available fairly and justly among the many customers, new and old, whose continued friendship and patronage are the keystone of our business.

So that you may have no doubt as to our method of distribution of new Chevrolet passenger cars and trucks, we make the following—

DECLARATION OF POLICY

- 1. PRIORITY OF DELIVERY—New Chevrolet cars and trucks will be apportioned on the basis of: (1) essential public services, (2) veterans' occupational requirements, (3) priority of date in placing orders.
- 2. PRICES—All new Chevrolet cars and trucks will be sold at the authorized prices current at time of delivery.
- 3. TRADE-INS—No trade-in will be required from any customer who does not have a car to dispose of at the time of the transaction. Customers who do have cars will be given allowances based on honest appraisal and fair value at the time of delivery.
- 4. ACCESSORIES—No customer will be asked to purchase accessories as a condition of securing delivery.
- 5. STATUS OF ORDERS—Customers will be informed, upon request, of the true status of their orders in our files.
- 6. NEW ORDERS—We welcome your order for a new Chevrolet at any time.

WE THANK YOU FOR YOUR PATIENCE AND LOYALTY

Plane Equipment

Syracuse, N. Y.—Anti-collision radar, new lightweight equipment compact enough for average commercial and military transports, is now entering final development and production here by General Electric. One special feature is its antenna—controlled by gyroscope.

The new equipment, weighing from 100 to 150 pounds, is designed as a unit, economical in cost and space requirements, suitable for common use in planes large enough to carry five or more passengers, and of the type that can be utilized in present planes by present crews. It is designed to lessen hazards of flying both in overcast weather and in darkness.

WILL ORGANIZE SPUD GROWERS

Assistance Sought In Meeting Idaho-Maine Competition

A meeting of vital importance to potato growers in this area and to potato growers in the Upper Peninsula is scheduled to be held at the court house on Wednesday evening, according to an announcement by Joseph Heirman, county agricultural agent.

Clayton Ford, of Delta county, one of two directors of the Michigan Potato Growers' association, will preside at the meeting which has for its objective the enrollment of members to the organization in order to provide an effective working organization in behalf of this important phase of our farming industry.

Mr. Heirman, in urging a large attendance at the meeting, emphasizes the fact that while Michigan raises potatoes that are equal if not superior to those raised in Maine and Idaho, these two states are crowding our product off of the market in our own trade territory—Detroit and Chicago being particularly notable examples.

Government assistance in procuring proper advertising and other advantages are possible only if a strong potato growers and dealers organization is formed and the purpose of Wednesday's meeting is to recruit as many members to the organization from here as is possible. The membership fees are nominal.

The conference will be one of a series of similar Girl Scout meetings taking place all over the country during November. More than 200,000 Girl Scouts of Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Wisconsin will be represented by their adult leaders at the Milwaukee sessions. Both national and local officers of the organization will gather to confer on the development and extension of the Girl Scout program.

Official Canvass Awaited To Decide 3 Congress Races

Washington, (AP)—An official canvass of Maryland's votes will decide this week end whether the old line state sends a Democrat or a Republican to the senate.

The other two undecided races from Tuesday's elections—a senate contest in West Virginia and a house battle in Utah—will remain unsettled longer.

Democrats led in all three races on the unofficial count.

Not considering these unofficial contests, the Tuesday results were:

House—Republicans elected 246; Democrats 187; American Labor 1. A majority is 218.

Senate—Republicans elected 23 for a total of 51; Democrats elected 11 for a total of 43. A majority is 49.

Vote On Bond Issue For Hospital Is Imminent

Enthusiastic support for a Schoolcraft county hospital, jointly endowed by county funds, popular subscription and a federal grant, was reported by members of the county board of supervisors and the hospital committee at a meeting held at the directors' room of the First National Bank Friday evening.

By a canvass of sentiment of members of the supervisors, made by Leonard Carley, of Cooks, chairman of the board, it was found that all members are favorable to the idea, the only question being raised was the amount of the county bond issue to be voted on. The suggested $150,000 issue suggested by the hospital committee was voted acceptable by the members of the board present and the signing of petitions will continue.

Five per cent of the qualified voters of the county must sign the petition in order to have the issue placed before the voters. Practically that required number have already signed, it was revealed at the meeting. The bond issue, it was generally understood, would be voted on in the spring election.

It was also announced by A. J. Cayla, chairman of the hospital committee, who presided at the meeting, that money is also being raised at this time to provide the means for securing services of an architect and to make the necessary preliminary arrangements.

It was explained that while the estimated cost of the project will be $300,000 and that the cost is to be borne equally through the county, popular subscription and federal grant, the $150,000 issue was deemed advisable in order that the sponsors may play safe should the federal grant be slow in materializing, which is often the case. Local funds, it was explained, must be raised before the federal grant is possible.

Irish Settle For Scoreless Tie With Army; Michigan Wins, 55-7

CADET SCORING CHANCE MUFFED

Notre Dame Gets Down To Three-Yard Line In Second Period

BY GAYLE TALBOT

New York, Nov. 9 (AP)—Two mighty football eleven's ripped and slashed and tore at each other for 60 action-crammed minutes on the turf of Yankee Stadium today, and when it was over the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame were forced to settle for a scoreless tie and the distinction of having shattered Army's 25-game winning streak.

The first great postwar college classic, played before a capacity throng of more than 74,000 in perfect football weather, saw the redoubtable Black Knights from West Point threaten repeatedly after recovering Notre Dame fumbles and intercepting wayward Irish passes, but they could not score.

Star Backs Stopped

Touted as one of the most terrific teams ever to come out of South Bend, the burly Irish powered 84 yards down to Army's three-yard stripe in the second quarter in their only real offensive gesture. Only the one time did they carry the ball past mid-field, though twice in the second half they fell upon Army fumbles in Cadet territory and could do nothing with the opportunity.

Army's all-conquering team, facing its first major test from a team filled with thoughts of revenge for beatings absorbed the past two years, muffed its best scoring chance in the opening period, when it was held for downs on the Notre Dame 15 after Goble Bryant, right tackle, had recovered an Irish fumble on the 24.

It was a bruising, breathless struggle. Only two Army players, Felix (Doc) Blanchard and Glenn Davis, the two-time All-America backfield brilliants, went the route for the Cadets. The Irish, with a wealth of warning, prevented either from breaking away on one of the long, touchdown runs for which they have become famous.

Blanchard in 20 smashes at the Notre Dame defenses had a net gain of 60 yards to show for a strenuous afternoon. His usually elusive little running mate, Davis, showed a net of 33 yards for the 15 times he lugged the leather. The best either wrote into the records was a 21-yard sweep around his left end by Blanchard in the third period.

Defense Airtight

Notre Dame's big forwards threw up an almost airtight defense against Army's vaunted running attack, and seldom could Arnold Tucker, the Cadets' noted passer, pierce the Irish secondary with his bullet pugs. Army, though thin in reserve strength, was equally successful in fighting off the Notre Dame steamroller when it was necessary to dig in.

The statistics if anything, give Notre Dame a little the better of it, though the Irish scoring threats were fewer and it was Army which, time and again, had the ball in the Greenbacks' territory and was trying desperately to

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

Great game, basketball, eh? Checking over the list of teams in our territory we find that there are no less than 16 high school squads, plus a dozen or so in the city league, plus eight in the projected Northern Lakes independent league, plus a possibility of 20 in the city grade school league, plus who knows how many more score by the aerial route.

The big ball-luggers from Indiana, led by Gerry Cowhig, a 211-pounder who struck with the power of an express train, and Terry Brennan, a shifty 18-year-old, chalked up 173 yards by rushing, compared to Army's 138.

Johnny Lujack, Notre Dame's All-America quarterback candidate, attempted 17 passes and completed six of them for 52 yards. Tucker, his rival for national recognition, and Davis shot 16 toward hopeful receivers, and five of them connected for 57 yards.

Notre Dame ground out 11 first downs to Army's 8, four of them in the course of its abortive 84-yard drive in the second quarter, which barely failed when Bill Gompers, a substitute halfback, was driven out of bounds only three yards from the Army goal line on fourth down.

Tucker Shows Up

As Notre Dame was deadily intent upon stopping Davis and Blanchard, it was Tucker who had an opportunity to show his mettle. Army's signal-caller got off several of the game's most electrifying runs, including a 30-yard dash from scrimmage just as the first half ended, and 32-yard punt return set off a Cadet march to Notre Dame's 20 in the third quarter.

Tucker was out of the fray for two plays late in the last period, and Lujack for only a similar short period. The tussle between the pair for honors at their position could have been called a draw, though Tucker's figures looked better.

Army threatened first in the tense debate, when Emil (Red) Sitko of Notre Dame fumbled midway of the opening period and Goble Bryant recovered on the Irish 24. This died aborning, as previously told, when Blanchard couldn't quite back out a first down inside the Irish 15. Notre Dame in the opening stanza couldn't get past midfield.

Then, soon after the second quarter opened, the Greenies started rolling. From their own 13, with Cowhig and Gompers smashing for repeated gains, interspersed by a 25-yard aerial from Lujack to Bob Skoglund, the Irish swept through the Cadets like they owned them—right down to the Army three.

that will be tossing a pumpkin through the hoop this winter. The schedule gaudlet runs every day of the week, including Saturdays and Sundays and the season, starting Nov. 15, will not bow out until mid-March at the earliest. Great fun for a sports writer, eh?

There is one thing about the prep basketball season, however, that is highly satisfactory. That is the fact that adequate provisions are made for determining specific championships, something that is not done in football with the result that the football season divides itself into two parts. One is the actual playing of the game and the other is the concurrent debate over the football championship, a part of the sport in which everyone can and usually does participate. Personally, we like the basketball setup better from that standpoint.

Speaking of basketball, we haven't heard anything yet regarding the progress of the vote being taken among high schools concerning the proposal to send Upper Peninsula champions to lower state tournaments. This matter was brought up at the MEA athletic meeting in Escanaba this fall and the athletic committee agreed to conduct a survey. The coaches are for the scheme at least 4 to 1, perhaps more, but it is unlikely that the consensus of opinion among the school principals and superintendents is that enthusiastic.

In addition to the count of noses regarding the participation in downstate tournaments, a survey also is being conducted to determine opinions on the matter of dividing the U.P. basketball championships into two divisions. In the past all four classes conducted their finals tournaments at the same center. This setup always resulted in a financial loss and it did not permit a fully satisfactory schedule of tournament bookings. Under the proposed revision, two classes would meet at one tournament center and the other two classes at a second center, located in a different city.

The proposed revision would open the U. P. finals tournaments to a considerably larger number of schools. Only three centers are in much of a position to bid for the tournament under the present setup—Ironwood, Ishpeming and Northern Michigan college at Marquette. Their gymnasiums have the largest seating capacity in the peninsula and even they are not large enough to meet all tournament expenses. Dividing the tournaments to two centers would also divide the expense and make it possible for schools like Escanaba, Menominee and others to bid for one of the sections.

HOOSIERS BACK IN BIG 9 RACE

Place-Kick By Ex-Pilot Noses Northwestern By 7-6 Count

BY JERRY LISKA

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 9 (AP)—A reserve tackle who flew 57 bombing missions over Europe place-kicked the extra point which gave Indiana a 7-6 verdict over Northwestern today and fanned into new life the smoldering Big Nine title hopes of the defending champions Hoosiers before 35,000 fans.

Ex-Army pilot Charley Armstrong booted the big point after Ben (the rifle) Raimondi, the nation's top passer, whipped a surprising two-yard touchdown pass to halfback Dick Deranek on the first play of the fourth period.

The erratic Wildcats, who scored their touchdown in the second period on fullback Vic Schwall's seven-yard smash, thus suffered their second straight Big Nine loss and ostensibly had the title door slammed before them with only league-leading Illinois to play.

College Teams Swing Into Final 4 Weeks; Title Races Tighten

BY HAROLD CLAASSEN

New York, Nov. 9 (AP)—Army and Notre Dame battled to a scoreless tie today in the football game that meant so much to both but on other fields the scoring was plentiful as the collegians swung into the final four weeks of the campaign with an array of titles just over the horizon.

Glenn Davis and Doc Blanchard, Army's tornadic touchdown twins of a 25-game winning streak, were held in check as Cadet Arnold Tucker shared the limelight with Notre Dame's Johnny Lujack in a game that provided every thrill but that of a score. After the fray some 74,000 pairs of tip-toes were weak from having been stood on all afternoon.

The script for the New York Yankee stadium battle called for a high scoring fray. But it wasn't followed. Neither was it followed in determining the winners in numerous other games.

Rice, the team that only recently made a myth of Texas' invincibility, came a cropper to Arkansas, 7 to 0, with the winner promptly moving to the South-western Conference throne. Oklahoma, ready and willing to wear the Big Six crown, was defeated by Kansas, 16 to 13, on a last-period, 40-yard field goal.

Indiana breathed new life into the Big Nine championship race by dealing Northwestern its second straight defeat, 7 to 6. Iowa moved into a fourth place tie with the Hoosiers by upsetting Wisconsin, 21 to 7, and Minnesota punted Purdue, 13 to 7.

Princeton, which last week upended Pennsylvania, bowed to Virginia, 20 to 6. The Quakers, who humbled Columbia, 41 to 6, today, previously had downed Virginia, 40 to 0. Cornell was burned by Syracuse, 14 to 7, in a startling reversal of form and Duke mastered Wake Forest, 13 to 0 in a game most experts thought would go the other way.

Georgia sputtered the first half but got on an even keel in the last half to down Florida, 33 to 14, and Louisiana State pushed to a 31 to 21 over Alabama when two of the great Harry Gilmer's passes were intercepted and nine fell incomplete.

Navy, gradually growing more powerful every Saturday, gave Georgia Tech a rugged afternoon before weakening to the fourth stanza and letting the Southerners pull out a 28 to 20 victory. UCLA was extended all the way by Oregon with the likely Rose Bowl team finally winning, 14 to 0.

Both Texas and Texas A & M stayed in the Southwest Conference race, the Longhorns with a 22 to 7 triumph over Baylor and the latter by blanking Southern Methodist, 14 to 0.

Tulsa came from behind to annex the Missouri Valley title in

The outlook this year is gloomy with only two lettermen returning from last year's team. Coach Bert Carlson will have a big job and will have to depend on underclassmen to carry much of the burden this year. Although the material is scarce this year, it is expected that before the season has progressed two far, Nahma will have a formidable aggregation.

SPARTANS TAKE WORST BEATING

Lone Touchdown Comes On 72-yard Pass Play In Third

BY JOSEPH H. KAPFNER

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 9 (AP)—Michigan's Wolverines, scoring by land, air and a pair of interceptions, registered a 55-7 victory today over the injury-riddled Michigan State Spartans in the 39th renewal of their long football rivalry before a series record crowd of 77,134 in Michigan stadium.

Racking up their biggest margin since their 55-3 victory over State in 1926, the Wolverines crossed the coal line twice in every period and allowed Spartan ball carriers to penetrate no deeper than their 40-yard line, except for State's third-period touchdown.

Getting down to business right after Quarterback Pete Elliott ran back the opening kickoff, to the Michigan 39-yard line, the Wolverines had a touchdown in 4½ minutes on a drive that halfback Bob Chappuis climaxed with an eight-yard off-tackle dash.

Jim Brieske's place kick for conversion was blocked, but Tail Back Don Robinson in a neat bit of improvising ran back to the State 30, scooped up the ball and passed to End Lennie Ford who ran over from the five-yard line for the extra point.

Heave Intercepted

A few minutes later Michigan was back on the State 3-yard stripe, after a 66-yard drive where Pete Elliott fumbled on a quarterback sneak and Spartan End Warren Huey recovered.

But three plays after Michigan regained the ball Chappuis passed to Pete from the State 28 to run up another touchdown.

In the second period the Wolverines got an early break when George Guerre, diminutive State tailback, passed from behind his goal line and End Ed McNeill intercepted on the four. Fullback Dan Dworsky hit the line for a yard and halfback Gene Derricotte slid off right tackle for touchdown No. 3.

Before the period had ended, Elmer Madar intercepted Russ Gilpin's pass on the Spartan 10 and ran un molested into the end zone to give the Wolverines a 28-0 intermission lead.

After Michigan had driven from its seven to its 44-yard line in the third period, Derricotte faded back and passed to Pete Elliott on the Spartan 10, and he trotted easily into the end zone for the Wolverine's fifth marker.

The sixth score was tallied after a five-play 56-yard drive that Robinson capped with a one-yard plunge through center.

Then the Spartans struck back for their only touchdown, a 72-yard pass play with halfback Horace Smith hurling from his own 28 to Fullback Frank Waters, who dashed 60 yards.

In the fourth period Michigan struck twice first on Fullback Jack Weisenburger's three-yard smash over guard and finally on Center Tony Momen's interception of Gilpin's pass on the State 30. Momen caught the ball in the flat and was clear of State tacklers all the way to the goal line.

Crisler Uses 47 Men

With virtually complete control of the ball, the Wolverines ran up 23 first downs to state's 8 and totaled 293 net yards rushing to the Spartans' 47. They completed nine out of 21 attempted passes for 207 yards, while the Spartans clicked on seven out of 14 attempts for 165 yards.

Wolverine Coach Fritz Crisler turned loose 47 players and dug so far into his reserves that seven gridmen, including Momen, were called for duty even though they had played in the Saturday morning "B" game in which Michigan defeated State 27-0.

Chappuis and Dworsky shared Wolverine ball-carrying honors, each netting 47 yards with Chappuis carrying seven times and Dworsky five. Oddly enough, Left End Mann was next in line with 43 yards, taking the pigskin four times on end-around plays that baffled the Spartans.

The Wolverine defense was alert enough to smear Spartan ball carriers Guerre, Jim Blenkhorn, Bill Spiegel, and Bob Fisher for such consistent losses that they each wound up with negative totals.

Don Waldron paced the Spartans' attack, gaining 19 yards in four assignments, while Russ Gilpin and Horace Smith netted 17 each.

The Spartans twice blocked Brieske's conversion kicks, something no team has done since Army, but one of them was salvaged after the first touchdown when Robinson passed to Ford for the surplus point.
